Job Description

Classified as allied health practitioners, medical assistants can be found primarily in doctors' offices and clinics. Medical assistants are multi-skilled and are competent in both administrative and clinical procedures. Among the roles that medical assistants often assume are:

- Clinical Assistant
- Administrative Assistant
- Receptionist
- Lab Assistant
- Billing Clerk
- Office Manager

Career Opportunities

- Employment of medical assistants is expected to grow much faster than the average for all occupations through the years as the health services industry expands.
- According to the U.S. Department of Labor, medical assistants held about 727,760 jobs in 2021. Approximately 65 percent were employed in physicians' offices, and about 16 percent worked in hospitals, including inpatient and outpatient settings. Others worked in nursing homes, medical offices, and other healthcare facilities.
- Most full-time medical assistants work a regular 40-hour week.
- Some work evenings and weekends.
